COUGHS WASTE ENERGY

Careful physicians always point out that every cough wears human strength and tears down the body's resistive powers. The reason is always best for coughs is that it peculiarly soothes the tender membranes while its rich, creamy food rebuilds the tissues to avert bronchitis and lung trouble.

No alcohol—just food.

THE SENATOR.

On Tuesday the people of the state demonstrated their preference on the choice of candidates for the office of United States senator. At the present time the result in the republican ranks is still in doubt with the indications that Thompson, who is the favored candidate of La Follette, who has openly espoused his cause, is in the lead over his opponent, Irvine Lenroot, the loyalist candidate. Davis has won the democratic nomination and Berger the socialist.

The vote, while light, demonstrates the state of unrest that has swept over the country. It is too early to state officially what caused this condition, but it is unfortunate that with the question of loyalty and disloyalty so clearly defined that Thompson was given the vote he is now credited with. It reflects upon the state and further still, will have its influence on our forces now in France fighting for the cause of democracy.

It will encourage the German leaders to instill their lessons for further outrages and bitter attacks upon Americans and will be used as an example for numerous exhortations in favor of continuing the war. The mere fact that Wisconsin, whose loyalty has been questioned, showed such a decided anti-war spirit, will encourage pacifists in other communities to raise their heads and give utterance to disloyal statements. It is more than unfortunate that it is a calamity.

Governor Philipp had a long head on his shoulders when he asked that he be given the power to appoint a successor to Paul Hastings of the legislature and the members of the state law-making organization made one of the many mistakes of their lives when they refused to grant it. It would have saved the present situation and given us time to prepare for the usual campaign in the fall when the matter could be thoroughly sifted out. This primary was a mistake now and even those who urged the special election now realize it.

MILITARY GENIUS.

In the American civil war, the genius of Robert E. Lee kept the confederacy going for many months after armies less brilliantly led would have collapsed. Similarly the genius of Ulysses S. Grant at last solved the problems that previous union generals had found impossible.

Many of us have been hoping to see our allies develop some leader that would display a commanding force and higher intelligence of a similar kind, so as to put a finishing stroke over on the Germans.

The Germans faithfully believe that their great Hindenburg has this gift. Yet most of the gains of the Germans have not come from superior military skill. They came because they took unfair advantage and struck blows below the belt. When they broke all treaties and crossed Belgium and struck France in an unforfeited part, it took no military genius. It was merely the act of a sneak and a coward.

Similarly when they befooled the simple and credulous Russians, and made them drop their guns in trusting faith, it was not military genius, but the slimy work of spies. Military genius has had nothing to do with the kind of warfare now proceeding in the trenches. It is a mechanical and organizing problem, of getting the most guns and men to work on a given spot. It is a question of having the men and guns ready to act together and advance first when a break has been made.

It is somewhat the same kind of genius that makes a great organizer of industrial operations. The American people have had a great deal of training in peace times on this problem. One must help hoping that when they really get into the fighting, the form of genius now called for will show itself.

The people who kick because it will take the United States two years to get ready for war, are often the same ones who will take three years to wake up to the need for personal sacrifices.

Part of the needless days have been done away with, but the land-lady does not always seem to know it when she makes beef stew.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest.

THE DOUBTFUL TOMORROW.

Whenever I walk through God's Acres of Dead I wonder how often the mute voices said:

"I will do a kind deed or will lighten a sorrow Or rise to a sacrifice splendid—tomorrow."

I wonder how many fine thoughts unexpressed Were lost to the world when they were sent to their rest: I wonder what beautiful deeds they'd have done If they had but witnessed tomorrow's bright sun.

Oh if the dead grieve, it is not for their fate: For death comes to all of us early or late.

But their sighs of regret and their burden of sorrow Are born of the joys they'd have scattered tomorrow.

Do the friends they have cheered know the thoughts of the dead? Do they treasure today the last words that were said?

What memories would sweeten, what hopes cease to burn If but for a day the dead friends could return?

ROY K. MOULTON

PANCAKELESS DAY

According to a western paper, Bro. Hoover has through the proper channels, requested all householders to refrain from making griddle cakes and pies. Of course, such a request is equivalent to an order, which will no doubt be universally obeyed. And this leads Fritz Nigel, an old contributor, to send the following:

"Lads, straw that broke the camel's back. Now Hoover strikes the fatal blow. No griddle cakes, no griddle cakes. For us poor mortals here below. Deprived of such a luscious food. Our lives will be a dreary waste. Without the flapjack sweet and brown. To see, to smell, to savor or taste. To win the war we'd gladly die. And Hoover praise to our last breath."

Could we but quickly pass away. But how we hate a lingering death.

Now they are talking about uniforms for the farmers. Not a bad idea. The farmers are serving their country. How about hickory or burlap denim overalls with buttons and a strap on the shoulder, cowhide boots and large straw hat?

That is the way farmers are supposed to dress, but none in the world ever dressed that way off the stage. They really should have some sort of uniform to distinguish them from the city folks. Nowadays the farmers and the city folks look much alike, only the farmers are slightly better dressed.

And now we must give a little space to M. M., a contributor, who has said the last word on the Jewish business man and his driver, all other jokesters on that subject from the fold:

The British, everybody knows, proverbially slow. Have oft impatiently been told to "go to Jericho."

The British are so literally minded, you must know. They took it at face value and they went to Jericho.

The British like themselves, yet no trumpets did they blow. They simply took a couple of guns and captured Jericho.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, March 19.—Only three hundred and fifty votes were cast in the city yesterday for senator at the primary. This is a light vote as there are generally in the neighborhood of 500 votes cast. This is attributed to the fact that so many men from the city are in the army. Of the votes cast Irvine Lenroot, republican, received the largest number of any candidate, he receiving 142 votes. James Thompson, republican, 118 votes. Joseph B. Davies, democrat, 71; Charles McCarty, democrat, 15; and Victor Berger, socialist, 4. At Stoughton Lenroot won over Thompson by 66 votes. In the town of Dunkirk Thompson received 24 votes, which was just half the votes cast. At Fulton, Lenroot, 22; Thompson, 24; Davies, 21; McCarty, 2; Berger, 1. Everything was quiet in the city yesterday and order prevailed.

M. J. Pelton of Middleton, called on friends in the city yesterday. Mr. Pelton has sold his store at Middleton and has purchased land in Florida and has made arrangements to move to that state.

THE CHICKEN BOOM

Raise More Chickens Now--It Pays

Do you know what is meant by the Government order to spare the hen this Spring, and the 65c a dozen price of eggs the past Winter?

Leaders in the poultry business look for the biggest boom in poultry raising the next few years, and the best profits from it, that you have ever seen. The U. S. A.—the whole world—is pretty well stripped of live stock and meat supply. The hungry armies, numbering into tens of millions, demand our beef and pork. About as many home folks as formerly must be fed, and we have all got to eat chicken. It will pay you, therefore, to get busy and fence up the hen lot with chicken tight fence. Order your poultry supplies while you can get them and make ready to feed our people with meat and eggs for which they will pay you well.

POULTRY and GARDEN FENCING

Your first necessity as a poultry raiser is a poultry tight fence. There are many styles of poultry fence, each with an individuality all its own, but the whole country faces a shortage of fence wire this year. Some dealers cannot get orders filled today. We are short of certain styles ourselves and can only supply you with some desirable style because of our proximity to the Apex fence factory and our agency for their products.

We still have plenty of those handsome, inexpensive chicken tight steel gates for poultry yards.

Put your poultry fencing this year on the Apex Steel Drive Posts. Just a few blows of the sledge and your post is set. You can scarcely call it work to build fence with these steel posts.

See to your poultry fence and poultry supplies NOW. The late comer may find it difficult to obtain what he will need this year.

Baseball owners appear to have made no preparations for a season of baseball in war times and there are quite a few who believe that they will have cause to regret it. Training trips it is true, have been cut down a bit in duration, but not in mileage and the saving will be most inconsiderable. The same long schedules have been adopted and in many cases players are receiving the same contracts as in seasons hitherto. There has been much talk about the reduction of ball players' salaries but there has been even more talk of large prices.

paid in important deals. Several club owners have been waving their hands in the air, saying they are going to suffer a bit for it. On the whole it looks as if club owners would have done well if they had planned for the approach of hard times some while ago when they were coming.

Musel, Shoemaker and Cullip, three of the players traded to the St. Louis Browns by the Yankees, have come to terms with the club, according to advices from St. Louis. Numanaker and Gedeon had hold-out contracts.

Sales of the Friendly Forest

by DAVID GARY

After you've been roaming, it's time to just be roaming. To do the things you used to do, for all the old things seem like new.

This is what Billy Bunny thought, for he had been away a long time, you know. Well, the first thing he did the next morning was to get up and dress and then eat his breakfast, and after that his mother sent him on an errand to Cousin Cottontail.

ALIENS MUST HAVE PERMITS TO MOVE

At the request of the department of justice, United States Marshal O'Connor calls attention to the requirements relating to the matter of the change of residence by German alien enemies. The regulations are briefly as follows:

"A German alien enemy changing his place of residence or place of abode within the registration district shall immediately report such change to the registration officer of the registration district and present such registration card, his registration card for the purpose of having endorsed thereon by such registration officer the change of residence. A German alien enemy who desires to change his place of residence to a place of residence within another registration district, must obtain a permit. Such German alien enemy must present himself to the registration officer of the district in which he then resides and make application for the permit on a form supplied by the registration officer, and present his registration card to the registration officer for the purpose of having endorsed thereon by such registration officer the change of residence. If the registration officer denies the application there may be an appeal to the United States marshal of the judicial district for final action.

German alien enemies will readily understand who is meant by registration officer. They are the officers who issued the registration cards. Chiefs of police in cities of five thousand or more are registrars for those German aliens living within the city limits, and postmasters of offices through which the alien may get his mail are registrars in all other areas. The general idea is that the German alien enemies are not supposed to move about freely from place to place, and registration officers are supposed to know where the most successful of those connected with their offices are at all times. Aliens leaving their home districts and going to larger cities are likely to find themselves in the hands of the police without even permits, and if so found will be immediately arrested.

Any violation of the regulations will subject the offender to summary arrest and subsequent internment.

Argicultural and Garden Department

Question—Is it time to plant tomato seeds, and how should it be done?

Answer—Yes, the time has come when tomato seeds should be planted in order to get the tomatoes early. In order to get the most successful of tomato growers of the writer's acquaintance makes it a point to get his tomato seeds in by the 20th of March. The seeds are sown in a box or shallow boxes and placed in a warm place to germinate. The gardener to whom reference has been made puts his seeds into boxes made to fit the size of a sunny window, where he grows his plants. To insure good drainage he puts small stones or fine clinkers from the ash heap into the bottom of the boxes. These he covers with a good garden soil with which he has supplied himself the previous fall, so as to be sure to have it in condition for using at the right time for planting the seeds. He fills the boxes to near the top and presses the soil down gently to make it firm for the seeds. He puts the seeds in even rows about one inch apart and then covers them lightly by sifting a thin layer of soil over which he has placed a layer of the seeds on it. The next step is to place a layer of soil over the seeds to prevent it drying out. The cloth is cut to fit the box and laid on smoothly so as not to disturb the seeds. The cloth is kept in place until the seeds germinate and the little green sprouts begin to push it up. If the soil beneath begins to show dryness the water is applied to the cloth and allowed to soak through. Until the seeds germinate it is sufficient to keep the boxes in a warm place, but after germination they should have plenty of sun and unless one has good light he should not attempt to grow plants indoors. Plants grown without good light are spindling and lack the vigor necessary to make successful plants.

After the second leaves appear the plants should be transplanted. Of this we will write later.

an errand to Cousin Cottontail. She wanted to borrow some baking powder to make some lovely carrot flour biscuits for supper.

Well, off hopped the little rabbit, and by and by he came to Cousin Cottontail's. Of course she was glad to see him, and so were all the little Cottontails, and he played hop, skip and jump rope with them, and then he opened his knapsack and took out some lollypops and gave one to each. And by that time Mrs. Cottontail gave him the baking powder, so he started for home.

As he hopped over the Pleasant Meadow little Dickey Meadow Mouse looked out from his small grass-ball house and said: "So you're home again, Mr. Billy Bunny." This made the little rabbit laugh, for he didn't feel important because he had been traveling. No, sir. He was just the same as he was before he left home, only he knew a lot more of course.

"Yes, I'm home and I'm glad of it. Come over and I'll show you some nice things."

long to run out of his house for he had all kinds of ideas of what Billy Bunny had brought home from his travels, and he hoped his kind rabbit friend would give him some of them. Well, as soon as he reached the Old Brier Patch, Billy Bunny gave his mother the baking powder and then he took Dickey Meadow Mouse around to the barn and into the little room which he had called his own. And wasn't Dickey Meadow Mouse curious. He could hardly wait to see the things.

Then the little rabbit opened a box and took out a pair of roller skates and some lollypops, and after that he took out a box of Dickey Meadow Mouse's. Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Wasn't that enough to make a little mouse's mouth water. And he was so afraid he wasn't to get any that when Billy Bunny gave him a little of everything Dickey Meadow Mouse forgot to thank his little rabbit friend.

What a feast they had, and with the good things were all gone, except the lollypops, for there was a whole big wooden box of them. Dickey Meadow Mouse put on one skate and Billy Bunny the other and away they skated down the Pleasant Forest Path. And if a lightning bug doesn't strike the big elm tree in our front yard and burn up all the leaves, I'll tell you in the next story how the apple pared the peach.

ROCK COUNTY HELD FIRM FOR LOYALTY AT THE PRIMARY

Small Comfort Given the Enemies of the Government by Tuesday's Vote in Both Assembly Districts.

If every county in Wisconsin had stood as firmly for loyalty as was demonstrated by Rock at the Tuesday primary, Lenroot had a total of 2736 votes to Thompson's 970, while Davies polled 1044 to McCarthy's 396 while Berger had but 162 as his total. The returns from the county are most satisfactory while it was a very small vote in its entirety when you add together the vote of Lenroot, Davies and McCarthy, all loyalist candidates and the Thompson and Berger vote, you will discover a ratio of four to one for loyalty.
